

with respect to taking them to the station the following day?

A I am coming to that.

Q I mean were any arrangements made the night previous; you say you left them; now before having left them did you speak to them regarding your taking them to the station?

A I know I took them to Point Pleasant the next day, but whether the arrangement was made that day or the next morning before I took them I cannot remember; but I imagine it was made before that. Now, Mrs. Wilson can tell you exactly. I imagine I had made the arrangement to go the day before, but I knew they were going and that is the reason I took and offered them the fish. That was about 11 o'clock. Now, while I was fishing on the beach that evening it is very possible that I came back to the house once or more times, because being so very, very close, if I thought of anything I wanted at the house or if I wanted some more bait or anything like that I would simply leave my fishing rod right there on the beach and run back and get it and Mrs. Wilson says she remembers me closing the garage doors. I used to leave them open always in the day time, and she remembers me closing the garage doors some time that evening. Now, she remembers what time it was done; I do not, because
